35 PASSENGERS AND CREW
OF A MEN ARE ALL LOST

Steamer was carrying Party of Laborers to C.N.R. Construction Camp

Victoria, Mar. 25.—With thirty-nine passengers and crew on board, the steamer Sechart, a small shelter deck steamer, operating between Victoria and Seattle by the British Columbia Shipping Co., capsized off Beachy Head last night. It was reported that all on board are lost. The Sechart left yesterday afternoon with thirty-five passengers, mostly laborers bound to the Canadian Northern construction camp at Heceta Bay and a crew of four men with Captain H. B. James, manager of the company, in command. Early this morning she arrived at Beaufort in a gale-lashed launch from the Victoria quarantine station with news of the tragedy. All the news was that the craft had capsized and he had been sent for help. William Joffe, a seaman on board, was the only man scattered broadcast. The Sechart was 32 feet in length, with a gross register of 75 tons.

MORMONS ARE INCENSED.
Declare Allegations as to Polygamy Are Outrageous Calumny.

New York, Mar. 25.—W. T. Stead calls that questions asked in the House of Commons would seem to indicate that Mr. Winston Churchill has been somewhat alarmed by the progress of Mormon propaganda in England. He informed the House that he was treating the subject in a very serious spirit and making him it very thorough—no answer which was received with cheers by the House.

This was the first official notice taken of the activities of the apostles of the Latter Day Saints in Great Britain.

The apostles treat the accusation of being polygamists as outrageous calumny, and one offered personally one thousand dollars reward for any man now living in Utah who had contracted a polygamist marriage since polygamy was abolished as a condition of Utah becoming a state.

WOULD SAVE THE STATES.

Frederick Villars Seeks Necessity for Aeronautics in U. S.

St. Paul, Minn., Mar. 25.—The United States is today unprepared for any great emergency in war, says a writer in the United States. It is the opinion of Frederick Villars, who is in St. Paul. He believes that the aeroplane is the most reliable in war, particularly in the United States. (Continued.)

He declares this country is woefully ill-equipped by some foreign foe, who will land on its shores and possibly win.

OPPOSITION TO RECIPROCITY IS BADLY DISORGANIZED IN EAST

Ottawa, Ont., March 24.—If reciprocity passes we are prepared to enlarge our present mills and erect new ones," was the significant statement of E. W. Hackett, president of the Ontario and Minnesota Power Company, before a private bill committee in discussing plans for the development of the industries on the Canadian side of the river.

Mr. Hackett laid on the table of the House of Commons further returns received by the Government, including Edmonton, Strathcona, Nanaimo and East River for the United Farmers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, who are forwarding sheets of personal letters warmly commending the government for securing wider markets for farm products.

In view of the many condemnations received from all parts of the country on obstruction tactics followed by the Conservatives, the opposition today adopted a more constructive line. The opposition promptly with the passing of supply. The opposition to reciprocity in the East is becoming badly disorganized and is unable to meet demands from people for the adoption of the agreement. The Conservatives are planning to hold a caucus at the beginning of the week to determine what course they can now pursue with safety.

BRITISH CLERGY ARE A LL FOR WORLD PEACE

Free Churches and Anglicans Alike Support the Movement—Great Hall on April 1st.

New York, March 24.—A cable despatch from London states that the proposals for an Anglo-American anti-war movement have been accepted in hundreds of churches. The Anglican clergy were not silent, but the heartiest response were from the evangelists. Free Churches, since the National Council of the Churches of Christ in America, have been making an appeal for an anti-war movement. The Rev. F. B. Meyer, chief organizer of the council, has stated to the Tribune's correspondent that yesterday's demonstrations prove that the Free Churches of the Kingdom are solidly behind Sir Edward Grey and that it remains for the churches in America and the leaders of peace societies to show whether they are prepared to support British Free Churches.

GOOD TRADE OUTLOOK FOR ENTIRE DOMINION

Dun's Review Reports Great Hand-ful Activity Throughout Dominion—Increased Earnings of Railroads Reflect Conditions in All Parts of the Country.

New York, March 24.—Canadian trade dispatches to Dun's Review, from the coast of the Dominion, indicate a general continuance of the satisfactory conditions heretofore reported. The review states that the country's volume of transactions is considerably in excess of the corresponding period a year ago. Some complaint, however, is received from the heavy industries of the west, where the conditions which have had an unfavorable effect on the trade are regarded as temporary, and with more settled conditions, a recovery is confidently looked for. Montreal reports that the return of winter conditions, together with the heavy movements of the season, have retarded any increase in trade, and dealers in clothing, dry goods, and other commodities, are what of a lull, although little change in volume is noted. Nevertheless, the general feeling is that the trade in the Dominion is on a gradual increase is expected.

The Will Be the Effect of Reciprocity Says Minneapolis Manufacturer.

Minneapolis, March 23—H. H. King of the Sheffield King Milling Company, Minneapolis, has written to Senators Knute, Nelson and Moore K. Chapin, pointing out that if under the proposed reciprocity treaty with Canada 10,000,000 bushels of wheat should move to Minneapolis from Western Canada it would mean a great advantage to the dairying interests of Minnesota because of the greater supply of feed that would be created and would also mean $1.00 of railroad labor. Yes, I wear a BUCKLEY, the hat with a real guarantee!

Every man who recognizes the importance of being well-dressed will surely welcome the announcement of the Buckley Hat guarantee. By reason of this guarantee, you may figure safely on the life of your hat for as long as four months at least—provided you wear the "Buckley". No chance of additional hat outlay—the guarantee treats you to a new hat if the Buckley you buy to-day isn't perfectly good four months hence.

Even accident is provided for in this all-embracing Buckley guarantee. No matter how badly a Buckley hat is damaged—if nothing remains but the label and the guarantee slip—these alone will entitle you to a new hat, provided the date on the guarantee shows the hat to have been less than four months in use.

But it's not the guarantee feature alone that should induce you to select the Buckley. There's another vital feature in hat selection—style is just about as important as quality.

There again the Buckley claims your serious consideration. Although English in make, these hats are built on American lines—and more graceful, more becoming lines, you never yet saw in a hat.

In both material and workmanship, the Buckley excels all others. UNION MADE, and with highest grade felt, they have in them to warrant the remarkable guarantee of their makers. Sold at all leading hat shops at $3.00.

Other hats may give satisfaction—the Buckley simply must.

DATE SOLD TO BE GUARANTEED. The Buckley Hat Co. warrants every Buckley Hat sold by it to be perfect in material and workmanship, and to give satisfaction for a period of four months. If the hat is damaged, or if it is not perfect in material and workmanship, the guarantee slip will entitle the wearer to a new hat of equal quality and value.

SATURDAY, MARCH 25th.

PRACTICE AND PRACTICE.

It is reported that the C. P. R. has purchased the Pierre Marquette railway. The road is 210 miles long, of which 121 miles are in Canada. The western farmer will wait with interest Sir William Van Horne's next trade against the base history of doing business in the United States.

THE MYSTERY.

In answer to a correspondent, the Winnipeg Telegram explains at length that the reciprocity arrangement will not really injure Canadian railways at all and that it does not threaten the stability of any Canadian industry. Naturally the next question that the correspondent will be, why are the Telegram and its friends opposing an agreement which will not only benefit seven people out of every ten in the Dominion?

WITH THE ENEMY.

Of the western Opposition members Mr. Magnath, Mr. McElhen, and Mr. Macle have declared in the "interference" and against their constituents. Mr. Lake says he is not sure yet whether he will join the men who elected him or with his party leader and parliamentary colleague, Mr. Heron. Mr. McCann and the other western opposition members have as yet kept to the woods. The significant fact is that not a single western opposition member has come out squarely for the agreement. Those who have not openly declared hostility stand where they stood weeks ago, leaving it to be understood that their sympathies are with their colleagues who are opposing the agreement, and that if their vote do not go in the same direction it will be through fear of the consequences when polling day comes round. If the agreement passes it will be through no effort of theirs. It is prevented from passing at this season they will bear a part of the responsibility for their silence. Has meant as much as the agreement as the outspoken hostility of representatives from other parts of the Dominion. While the value of the reciprocal arrangement may be to the other sections of the country, it is to the farmers of the western provinces that it holds the largest hope. They are situated so remote from the present export market for their products that the opening of the U.S. market offers more to them than even to the farmers of other provinces. This was a question upon which the western members should have stood together, and not as they have done, as resolute and outspoken champions of the interests of the prairie country. The silence of most of the western opposition members, and the declared hostility of some of them, has put into the mouths of the western members of the measure a powerful argument against it. The West, they say, with some show of authority, does not want the agreement, and if the West does not want it certainly no other part of the Dominion needs it. That is the evil that has been done by the cowardice of the western members who have held their silence. Not having declared support to the agreement, they were taken as being in opposition to it. The agreement accordingly denounced as something their constituents did not want. Had these men openly declared hostility to the agreement they could have done no more to do than they have done, and would at least deserve the recognition due to courage. Wanting to see the agreement brushed over since. None the less the moral effect of their course has been with the enemies of the agreement, and was intended to be with them. In not voting for the agreement, they have been assisting it, or doing it, and effectively as their fellow-members who openly declared themselves against it.

THE FIGHT PROCEEDS.

The Opposition are showing a more reasonable disposition, and have allowed the business of Parliament to proceed for one day without obstruction. That that is the result of the fight against the reciprocity agreement, but merely that they have discerned the danger of provoking the public wrath by holding up the whole stream of public affairs. The raising of the blockade, if it is really a raising, is merely a concession to the static storm of protest from all quarters against the senseless and needless closing up of the whole business of Parliament. That the abandonment of the blockade means the abandonment of the fight against the agreement, or indicates any intention of slackening the onset on the agreement, there is no reason to suppose. The blockade in fact has now accomplished what it was intended to accomplish—the delay of the passing of the agreement through the House. Whether the delay has been as long as was hoped for, it has been considerable, and has brought the plan of the Opposition within the range of the practically possible. That plan was simply to prevent progress on the measure until they remained only a few weeks of the session, and then crammed with the ordinary business of the House. That done, it was hoped to be possible to "talk out" the measure until the House was obliged to prorogue to allow the Ministers to attend the Imperial conference, and the creation. It may be taken for granted that if this can be done it will be. Having taken the stand of uncompromising hostility to the agreement, and declared it a measure inimical not only to the welfare but to the political existence of the Dominion, the Opposition are bound to continue the attack by every means within their power. To allow it to pass if they can prevent it—after having assailed it as a measure fatal alike to our economic welfare and our national independence—would be to discount everything they may have to say hereafter. Future declarations from them, however, in the language in which they were couched, would be taken with more than the proverbial grain of salt. To save their faces, the Opposition are bound to talk out the measure if they can do so—which they are, they can. It may be taken too, that the "interference" who have put them up to it will not be satisfied with nothing but a fight to the finish. These allies they see in the agreement the end of the protest of the men so much enjoyed. They are not likely therefore to take any chances on the agreement if they can. The raising of the blockade, if such it is, is the only altering of tactics under pressure, and because the ground of the tactics has been partly gained. The real fight goes on.

THE HERO PRIESTS OF THE NORTH

THE PIONEER MISSIONARIES OF CANADA AND OTHER WORK AMONG THE INDIANS AND ESKIMOS—BY JANEY CANUCK (MRS. ARTHUR MURPHY, EDMONTON) IN COLLEARS MAGAZINE.

"For long years," said a Toronto editor the other day, "this country has produced few outstanding personalities except politicians."

Here, quoth the little Canadian, "in this country," he meant the province to the south of the Great Lakes. "Think of that! Think of that!"

Why, man, dear, north of the lakes we have "outstanding personalities" to turn—and we have them. And, here and now let me say that under the northern lights, politicians must, in fact, take a third or even a fourth estate, for always we have to reckon with the missionary priest, the business man, and the real estate agent before we begin to consider the politician. Even then I am not so sure but the editor and the railway titan in this large, airy land politicians are truly but small fry from small places—inconsequential ephemera, who are in a heart-beat and die.

Do you doubt my word? Be so good as to cast an eye over the record of the Kutherford Government in Alberta and see what happened to it. If you can not find the record, it will do just as well if you believe that the boy stood on the burning deck."

If I had realized at the start this was to be an article on the "outstanding personalities" among the missionary priests, I would have been differently. I would have said that the Anglo-Saxon hunters for beaver, but that here we are—that this was why the raw, raked wolf-paw found along the Hudson Bay and along the stretches of the Mackenzie river was of deep and peculiar interest, in that it had the distinction of producing crops of heroes and that the breed never seemed to run out. I would have said that the story of the northern priest is the story of a man with an ideal, or, if you will have it so, with a dream; that the dream is one that disturbs his rest and leads him in perils often. I would have gone further and shown this boy of dreams to be, at the same time, a supreme realist and, without question, one of the highest types of human excellence in the last half century; that he has the dauntless spirit of the soldier, the enthusiasm of the explorer, the enterprise of the merchant, and the disinterestedness of the statesman, and all for the sole object of helping humanity. In a word, that he is a special soul and must not be judged as general.

It is to be regretted I did not begin in this way, but, to quote the Roman governor who gave judgment concerning the Nazarene: "What I have written, I have written."

Even Days of Wandering.

Among the missionary priests of the north there is, today, no greater outstanding personality than Father Stricker, of the diocese of Mackenzie River.

I used to know his years ago when he was Isaac Stricker, student, a little young fellow, lean and clay, and strong of wind, who could carry a bull down the steep part of an antagonist and send it spinning through the goal. When I say he has grown stout since, those days you must not make deduction that he is undernourished and overfed like the other bishops of whom we have heard tell. On the contrary, he is a stout fellow, it is our privilege to gate custom to arrive at dignitaries. Indeed, it was only last winter that Bishop Stricker, on his way across the divide from the Mackenzie river to the Yukon, nearly lost his life from starvation. He and his companion, Charles F. Johnson, were lost in a mountain fog and missed the trail. Southern folk who at all officers and pictures do not grasp the full meaning of this and I can not very well explain except to say that Dante had an exceedingly fine insight when he made the Inferno foggy.

For a week, in deep snow and deeper fog, they wandered in and out of Peav's River, the irony of which could not fail to rob them of their wits. Returning to the Peav's, they spent three days making snow-shoes and cutting up moose-horn for walking. From here they ascended the height of land and crossed three divides before finding an out-flowing river. But again the fog descended, and now came the fight for life. On and on they wandered, day after day, scarcely able to see a foot ahead and, according to a daily ration of a spoonful of flour and rice and the half of a red squirrel's egg. But even this ran out, and the sorely beset men tried eating moose-horn, and ended on musk-rats or muskrat hounds.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, I would explain that muskrats are confined out of raw muskrat. At last, after eleven days of blind stumbling, they came out at an Indian camp on the Peav's river. Twenty miles further down, at Hudson Bay fort, the factor weighed the much-emaciated men and found that each had lost fifty pounds.

In his letter to his wife, who was waiting in Kincardine, Ontario, the Bishop says of his experience: "The one thing that made us unhappy was that this feeling wore off when I meant a matter of life or death, and day after day we wondered how long we would last, whether you would ever hear from us. You can imagine."

The only medical training the Bishop had undergone was a short course in the treatment of the blind, and this when he was in England for his consecration. This is a form of blindness that causes great suffering among the Indians, and the Bishop has himself been stricken with it on several occasions. On one of these, stumbling painfully at every step, he was led by an Eskimo boy for seventy-five miles. Writing of his agonies, he says: "They are terrible. The first foot-print on earth made by our risen Saviour: the nail-marks of suffering, and for the spread of the gospel I, too, am prepared to suffer."

Like Stricker, Bishop Homan also endured frequent starvation, but seldom spoke of it as a personal happening, but rather as applying to others. Writing about it to a friend in England, he said: "Bodies were killed for food and fur eaten at several of the posts. The Indians had to eat a good many of their heavier skins."

Another man who endured the privations of the pioneer in this district is the present Bishop of Keweenaw, Joseph Lefebvre.

The most interesting, and certainly the most romantic story of his career is that of his marriage. His bride, a young English girl, was due to arrive on the yearly voyage of the Hudson's Bay Company. Lefebvre travelled several hundred miles to meet her, but found she had come, being unavoidably detained in England. The following summer he made the same journey, but this time, as the vessel pulled up the harbor, he was able to sing out the bride's face on the deck.

Yes, sir! if you had lived among the Eskimos and Indians all these years, you, too, would tremble and shiver in the throat as the ship rose hit the morning-post.

But now the young couple found themselves in as trying a predicament as the frontier with the sea in front. Planktonic army, isolated, and unrelenting racks on either side. In a word, there was no minister to marry them. Things looked badly for them, and the bride was thinking of returning home, when it suddenly occurred to the captain that, on the spot, according to law, he was entitled to act as a magistrate. It was not long till the good ship slipped her moorings and stood out into the sweep of the Atlantic wave, to a time-honored form, the minister and the girl plighted their troth, symbolized it by the gift of a ring, and ratified it by the authority of the State, in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost.

That is a good enough story to read with, but there are other "outstanding personalities" most "outstanding" in the world.

Protecting a Madman.

There is Bishop Homan, who resides at Athabasca Landing, and who has had many interesting experiences among the Redskins. Like all true northmen, the Bishop speaks in a quiet, low tone, and is careful to the art of narrative. Once, for weeks, he took charge of a Western or Weendee Indian, in order to protect him from relatives who sought to take his life. The man believed himself to be a cannibal, or in some strange way the idea had been suggested to him. After a time the hallucination passed away and the man returned to the camp.

Until comparatively recent years these untoward releases showed that people who were insane or in delirium were either "blessed" or "blessed" of an evil spirit, and that it was necessary to kill them, in order to prevent this spirit from entering into others. The plight of the relatives in these cases was pitiable; they could not allow a violent, insane man or woman at large, and the killing was usually performed with great grief. This custom has fallen into disuse, for, since the advent of the mounted police, the perpetrators are treated as murderers and accordingly hanged.

The most arduous duty of the police is the bringing in of deranged Indians or white prospectors from the north. It is a task that has, in turn, driven a stalwart redoubt, once the men are apt to creep away, for weeks, you sleep at night in the snow, and to a man.

Fighting Snakes Among Indians.

And there was the Rev. Henry Irwin, better known as Father Pat. He was a railroad pilot on the Canadian Pacific, and because of his unrelenting work among them, became the "snake" of the north. "There are some unrelenting," those who think of him as a fierce, misanthropic body with black and white stripes, and a snarl like the jaws of the world. There are, we own, some priests like this, but Father Pat was not one of them. Indeed, his sense of duty was so strong that as to often going spiritual to church folk who were not so conversant with his noble deeds and self-sacrifices as were the railroad navies and gold miners. Father Pat had only been married a year when his wife and baby died, and not so long after he was found almost dead in a death in a snow bank, from the results of which he died. Here was an elementary man fighting the elements. The north stands at salute!

Not after the Roman Catholic missionaries lay self-denying, or in any way smaller men than their Protestant counterparts. There was Bishop Irwin, who broke his feet and amputated his toes with a penknife. "Sir, it's better beneath the bear!"

In 1897, at St. Albert, the celebrated headquarters of the Catholic Church in Alberta, Father Lefebvre named the Indians who were sick with smallpox when he contracted it himself. Then the other aboriginal regions will have to wait about their stories of romance and history, dramatic, preternatural stories such as we frame to save our Sts. Patrick, Augustine and Albanus. Perhaps the most interesting event in Lord Strathcona's visit last year in Alberta was his meeting again with Father Lacombe. It was in the Government House gardens at Edmonton, overlooking the Saskatchewan River. All the guests, tell back out of earshot while the saint men clasped hands and talked over other days and of the boys who had long since crossed the height of land to the ultimate sea.

At the present time Pere Lacombe is living at Milestones, near Calgary, in a house for poor old folk and children, the money to build which he collected himself.

And there was the story of Father Griffin, who was frozen near Emerson on the eve of All Saints' Day, 1886. It was told to me by Father Lestane, who eighty years ago, was born at first in Ireland. Father Lestane has been fifty-five years in the West and North, ministers of which were spent at St. Boniface under Bishop Tache. In spite of his extreme age, Lestane has a hardy, moulded figure, and a strong, clear voice. One can not listen to him for long without being impressed by his affectionate force and broad reach of humanity. He is not clear about things of yesterday, but takes him back over the decades and his memory rings true as a bell.

run of one hundred and forty miles from St. Boniface to Emerson, but in twenty-four hours Gifford lay in Bishop Tache's palace on the banks of the Red River. Dr. Dunn, the physician at the Hudson Bay post across at Fort Garry, awaited his arrival and examined the already putrefied members. The next morning Gifford was found to be bleeding to death; the stitches would not hold and the veins were open. Nothing could be done but to calmly await the end.

Father Letanne broke the news to the household, whereupon the sorrowing but withal practical sister of the kitchen placed a cushion of buffalo to follow on the stove, for, explains his narrative, "a priest's ankle requires many many candles."

The little serving maids under the sister, doubtless whispering over the sad happenings upstairs, forgot to watch the pot, so that it "boiled much, Madame," over the red-hot stove, till all the house was on fire. Do not avoid the grief, but wait till I tell you. Such a thing was never heard of. It was really Le Bon Dieu who permitted the house and cathedral to burn. There is no doubt of it, for, when the priests carried the dying youth out and laid him on the snow, the frost convulsed the blood so that his veins cooled to empty themselves.

This was fifty years ago, and last summer Father Gifford came up from Fort Canada, near St. Paul, to attend a cathedral service at Winnipeg, on the site of old Fort Garry.

"Out, Madame, out, I comprehend when you say amilla simillima curatior. Literally, eat eat a frost killing frost cure. Let eat a well killing the body eat so adaptive."

And once Bishop Grandin was lost in the snow. It was in 1863 near Fort Resolution on Great Slave Lake. With one Indian boy he was crossing the lake on the ice, following in the wake of a party of Hudson's Bay Company men. The Bishop's dogs were tired and fell behind. When a storm blew up he lost the trail.

The thermometer was at 40 degrees below zero, and the storm was what up like a fine powder. This does not sound unpleasant, but as an accident it is in the extreme North, a sinister snow that bites your face like driven needles.

The Bishop had no guide but the wind when a storm rises the wind veers. He gave the dogs their head, but even their homing instinct failed them in the storm and night so that they crouched on the ice and howled in unison with the little Indian boy.

An interrupted Mass. At dawn the boy said he smelled smoke, for he was an Indian, and smoke travels far in the clean wind-swept air of the North.

On looking off to the west their sighted land, and after a painful journey met a log-train coming toward them with men—The boy's father and uncle. The priest was celebrating a mass for the repose of the Bishop's soul when he arrived, for "the savages," says my informant, "had declared the Bishop would be frozen to the middle of new heart."

Used in Canada for over half a century—used in every corner of the world where people suffer from Constipation and its resulting troubles—

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills,

The Hon. Duncan Marshall returned to the city yesterday from a trip to Ohio. Mr. Marshall stated that on his farm, which is situated close to that town, drilling and harvesting operations have already commenced. Tenders for lease for the water works department for the year 1911 were quoted by the commissioners at yesterday's regular meeting. They were referred to the superintendent for tabulation and report, and the award will be made after this has been received.

A letter received from the city from Toronto (Ore.) stated that he was now at Mount Union, Riverside, O. He expected to leave to return for the first time in the course of a day or two and hoped to visit Edmonton within the next two weeks.

A communication was received from J. B. Ryan, acting for The Standard Coal company, stating that it was the intention of the company to demand a renewal by the city of their lease of the right to the coal rights on Riverside 25. The demand is made under the terms of a lease entered into with the former owners, who sold to the city. The city collector has already advised that the company have no rights under the lease, and the communications was referred to the collector.

LECTURE ON JOHN WESLEY.

Before a large audience in Melburn Methodist Church last night, the pastor, Rev. J. E. Hutchinson, gave a very much appreciated lecture on John Wesley, tracing the life and work of the great founder of the church. The chair was occupied by Dr. Edgar Allan.

The students of Alberta College were present and added much to the interest by singing old Methodist hymns. Those were also a number of steno-graphic views and the song, "The Ninety and Nine," was sung by Mr. Waggott.

SENATOR CUMMINS ASSAILS AGREEMENT

Speech Before Grant Club of Des Moines, Senator Says He Will Introduce Amendment to Enlarge the Free List

Des Moines, Iowa, March 24.—Senator A. H. Cummins, in an address tonight to 400 members of the Grand Jury, assailed the Canadian reciprocity agreement, which President Taft has called an extra session of Congress to consider, and insisted that the agreement should be amended in important particulars before it is ratified. He said the agreement proposed to put on the free list certain products of the farmers, and he intended to propose amendments which would put on the free list 30 per cent imports from Canada to America, such as wheat, flour, and manufactured goods such as cotton and woollen cloths, hats, coats, fur, sawed boards and planks, manufactured iron and steel, agricultural implements, etc.

the agricultural products of the United States in regard to those things which the United States should remove all barriers between the manufacturers of Canada and the markets of the United States in regard to those things which the United States must buy in order that they may be a producer."

Senator Cummins insisted that the amendments he proposed in enlarging the free list was properly offered for the reason that Canada cannot and will not object to them and their inclusion will not bring within the provision other countries under the "favoured nation" clause, whereas if offered as amendments they would do so.

WANTED IRON DISTRICT

SEASON IN HISTORY

...season in History of Western Canada.

Increased activity in all branches of retail trade is the principal development of the week, and it is evident that the commercial community has struck its pace for the season. Particular briskness is reported in hardware and groceries, and there is a satisfactory movement of dry goods. The impression is prevalent that the western provinces have entered upon one of the busiest seasons in their history.

with the trend of events are along their preparations accordingly. The supply of money is sufficiently current needs, and it is freely circulated. Rates are likely to firm, with no actual change of the banks are reported to be coming in the strings a little, on account of the activity with which exporters have taken advantage of the accommodation that was available. Other banks for their part may they have more money now than the first of the year. They are said to let it out on good security they are particular about the policy. They can afford to be particular, because so much good business is being offered to them. Lower prices are noted in a number of commodities.

The resolutions were signed by the members of the legislative and executive committees of the National Grange.

FINAL ACT OF TRAGEDY.

Remains of Condon Who Was Murdered in Robin Hotel Are Buried.

Winnipeg, March 24.—One soldier's last funeral in the west was witnessed in a mournful way to St. James' cemetery this afternoon. This inauspicious ceremony was the final act in the career of Nicholas Giovanni Condon, the Canadian, who met a violent and tragic death at the hands of an enemy last Saturday afternoon. Two mourners who followed the dead man, one of them stoutly maintaining that she is the dead man's widow, and the other is a friend. A single insistent wail was the only token of respect this funeral tribute being from the wife.

The little woman, decidedly French in manner, accused the city of all who saw her. She seems to have held her husband in high esteem and her grief is accentuated by the fact that she is under the ban of the law. Now that the funeral is over, she must hurry from the city, she says the effect of the court, which she branded her as an undesirable.

Abolishing Lawyer in Glenora. Lawyers, March 24.—J. T. Smith's law office, which was located in Glenora, was closed today after a business of two days ago. This statement was made this morning by a well-known Calgary man, who knows Mr. Smith well, and says to him, but he has not seen him since. Chief Mackle stated this morning that he had received no request for Mr. Smith's appearance, so that he could walk down Glenora's main street today, so far as the local authorities are concerned, was at a distance that the victim was fatally injured. An ambulance was called from the Western hospital, and the injured man removed there, but he died within a few minutes after entering the emergency ward.

After came here from England, and after having served through the South African War with the Scots Greys. He was 42 years of age, was married, and leaves a widow and two children, the youngest one only a week old.

KILLED WHILE ESCAPING.

Patient in Hamilton Asylum Meets Death by Dropping From a Window.

Hamilton, March 24.—A remarkable escape has taken place at the Hamilton asylum, where one of the privileged patients, a man named Lockhart, jumped from a second-story window and sustained injuries which caused him to bleed to death.

The man made his jump on Wednesday night, and his body was not found until Thursday morning. Nothing was heard outside the asylum about the accident until noon today. Lockhart opened the window and attempted to escape. He must have dropped from the window sill. When discovered one of his arms was partially severed, the cut going clear through the upper arm.

The spot where the body was found was 300 yards away from where he dropped. He must have dragged himself this distance as blood stains were found all the way.

DISCUSSES THE GRAIN BILL.

Representations of Various Interests Appear Before Senate.

Ottawa, March 24.—C. H. Walter, secretary of the Dominion Millers' Association, appeared before the senate committee on agriculture this morning in support of clauses prohibiting the mixing of grain in terminal elevators and the operation of terminals by persons interested in the grain trade.

W. A. Mack, western manager of the Ogilvie Milling Company, asked that the clause be eliminated from the bill on the ground that Ogilvie Company would be seriously handicapped if they could not have their own terminals and said they were perfectly satisfied with the quality of grain which they received from terminals operated by other companies.

Mr. Horne, for the C.P.R., said that company had no opinion to express on the main question in the debate, but they asked that their hospital elevator, which was used for the cleaning and conditioning of damaged wheat, should be excluded from the clause.

RESIGNING PREMIER RETURNS TO OFFICE

Premier Stoytip of the Head of the Russian Council Has Decided to Withdraw His Resignation and the Cabinet Crisis is Therefore Over.

St. Petersburg, March 24.—Premier Stoytip, who last Monday said in his resignation, has decided to remain in office and the cabinet crisis therefore is at an end.

An imperial decree named today Stoytip and M. Trepoff and M. Dornov from all offices of the council until January 1912.

M. Stoytip had insisted on the removal of these reactionary opponents of his policies, as the price for retaining office and it is understood that it was the negotiation of this point that led to a prolongation of the cabinet crisis. Imperial decrees appointing the Duma, and the council of the empire for three days beyond recognition.

ARCHITECT'S WIDOW RECEIVES $116,000

New York Man Dies From Injuries Of Fatal Accident, and His Widow Is Paid Estimated Claim—Premiums to the Amount of Only $600 Have Been Paid.

New York, March 23.—What is said to be the largest unopposed personal accident insurance claim in the history of the business was settled yesterday afternoon when James D. Patterson, resident director of the Travelers' Insurance Company, paid to the widow of John M. Carrere, the architect, a check for $116,000 as the result of a policy on which Mr. Carrere had made payments aggregating $400.

Mr. Carrere sustained a fracture of the skull through a collision of the taxicab in which he was riding and a trolley car on the evening of February 12, and died last Wednesday.

His policy was of the form known as death and dismemberment, and did not cover for weekly indemnity. It was taken out August 28, 1907, and carried an annual premium of $116, four of which had been paid. The amount for which he was insured was $250,000 and the indemnity was doubled if the insured was injured while on a passenger car or other public conveyance, or during building, steam passenger vessel or on a elevator. In addition, the policy provided for an annual addition for five years of 10 per cent. of the principal sum, or $25,000 annually. There was also a clause which allowed a benefit of $1,000 for hospital fees, including surgical operations, medical attendance and the expense of a trained nurse.

The accident having taken place in a taxicab, the insured was entitled to double benefit and having been in force over three years, there was an accumulation of $115,000 due. During the time which elapsed between the accident and his death there were four operations, making the "net" claim operative. This is the first time, it was stated by insurance men yesterday, that over contingency covered in an accident policy of the kind was met in a contract of such large size, upon which the annual premium is based upon a charge of 12 for each $1,000 of insurance.

The death and dismemberment form is usually purchased by men whose incomes are so large that they are not attracted by the contract which provides for weekly indemnity during disability from accident and for which the companies charge a premium of 15 per $1,000 insurance.

Laborer Mangled Under Train.

Winnipeg, Mar. 24.—A man, evidently a laborer, was knocked down by a C. P. R. freight train in the yards near the Louise bridge, about 2:30 this morning. He died before the ambulance arrived. The dead man is about 24 years of age but the body is so badly mangled as to be beyond recognition.

MAN AND WIFE KILLED.

Son Killed by Police, Charged With Death Murder.

Atlantic, Conn., Mar. 24.—Thomas Fitzgeralds, 30, and his wife, Mrs. Mary, were found in their home on Division street late today with their skulls crushed in with an axe and the bodies on the floor. Their son, Thomas Jr., 16, being held by the police, charged with the double murder, though, according to the story told by him to the police, his father killed his mother and he was away from his father, but could not be reached when he took the axe away from his father, but according to the medical examiner the wounds were probably self-inflicted.

The tragedy was discovered by a returning Edward Fennerty, who, attracted by a smoke issuing from the windows of the home, entered, to find Thomas Jr. holding the head of his father, who was lying on the kitchen floor, with an axe, and the body of the mother, with her skull crushed in, lying on the floor in a front room. The house was on fire, and other boys in the neighborhood saw the scene, but a lamp which was on the floor, or by a stove which was overturned. Before the bodies could be removed, that of the mother Fitzgeralds was badly burned.

Possibly secured the son and held him until the arrival of the police. According to the story told to them by the son, who was released from the state asylum for the same a year ago and since that time had been working in Schenectady, N.Y., he returned home a week ago. His father and mother, he said, frequently quarreled and today had a particularly violent fight, which led his father to seize the axe which stood in a corner of the kitchen and strike Mrs. Fitzgeralds on the head. The son said he interfered as soon as he could and took the axe from his father and struck him with it, crushing his skull. The fire, he said, was started by the lamp, which his father had thrown at his mother before attacking her with the axe. Fitzgeralds is being held pending the coroner's inquest.

CORONATION ROBES OF BRITISH MANUFACTURE

Fabric Will be More Valuable Than Its Weight in Gold—Queen Mary is Overhauling Her Diamonds—She Will Wear Late Queen Victoria's Diamond.

London, Mar. 24.—The weaving of the cloth of gold for the King and Queen's coronation robes has been begun at Messrs. Warner's silk works, Bainton. My order of the Queen, who is specially interested in the British silk industry, the materials will be entirely of English make. The cloth consists of silk material, into which are woven threads of pure gold. When finished the cloth, which will be valued for 1500 pounds, will be taken to the London School of Art Needlework and made into robes for the King and Queen. The fabric is stated to be more valuable than its weight in gold.

Queen Mary has already begun the fascinating task of overhauling her wardrobe, which she has been doing since her arrival in England. She has been doing so since her arrival in England.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., March 24.—H. Milton, aged 40, of North Bay, employed at C.P.R. round house here, was fatally injured this morning. He was walking on the track and was struck by an engine, his leg being severed.
